

Spring 2017 Global Forum on Urban and Regional Resilience Seminar Series

“Valuing Resilience Policy from a Value Perspective: Research Agenda for Resilience”

*by: Dr. Jim Bohland,
Professor Emeritus at School of Public and International Affairs,
Virginia Tech
Principal Research Associate – Global Forum on Urban and Regional Resilience*

Resilience has become a popular concept in both academic and policy worlds. Unfortunately, the concept suffers from a “fuzziness” that makes it opaque as a policy construct. As one author has noted, “resilience is an empty vessel filled by the values of whomever is using it.” The seminar will present a framework for understanding what values are advocated within resilience policies. The framework integrates advocacy coalition and cultural cognition theory as a means of understanding how values shape resilience policies and rulemaking.

Join us in the discussion!

Wednesday, February 15, 2017

3:00 P.M. – 4:00 P.M.

Location: Global Forum Conference Room, Suite 312, Kent Square Building

*Reception to Follow***

To connect via WebEx, click here